

Erica
Cheyenne
Deart

Ms. Gurner

I am a specialized Technology Coordinator for the President of the United States Barack Obama. I keep him and his staff up to date by telecommuting, so he is able to stay up to date with the United States of America and its surroundings. This is one of the most effective processes to use. Our brave troops across the seas use this course of action quiet often.

I would also use teleconferencing to inform the people of America, about the progress and news of the country and its society. Teleconferencing is swift and reliable since you can hold a conference transversely and you can actually see whom. There are actually classes such as: French, German, and Japanese; you can actually take this curriculum through teleconferencing in the present day. Technology has accumulated rather quickly with in a century.

There are many other ways to communicate such as: texting, e-mail, calling, and various other things that might be pretty ideas to communicate, but I think that teleconferencing and telecommuting are the most effective and reliable ways to converse with people. They are the most modern costumes' in today's society. I also think it would get information out quicker so that people are aware of the world's reports. I encourage you to try this tactic sometime throughout your life.