

Josie
Jarrell

Have you ever worked for the President? I did! I was in the computer room. My friend and I had to manage the techno stuff in the white house. We used cell phones, laptop, computers, and tv. We worked for the President of the United States of America. We worked and worked and worked every day of the week. I thinking how did we get this job anyway? so while we were working I asked her. She just stopped and said "I don't know." Then we thought don't we control all electronics? We looked at each other then looked at the machines. We smiled and turned off every electric thing in the white house that we could. I said "Let's go now!" She just nodded and we ran. It was really hard since the lights was turned off. When we made it to the door the lights got turned on. So we opened it and ran as fast as we could. When we stopped my friend looked at me and said "do me a favor." I said "ok." She said "wake up." I did wake up. I jumped and saw I was at home in my bed. I was relieved to see that it was Saturday. I got out of bed and saw everybody still asleep. Of course I was the earliest up as always. I checked the clock it said 1:30 AM. I said to myself "that was a strange dream. I hope that doesn't happen again." I stayed awake cause I couldn't go back asleep. Then I started to wonder how does the white house get it's power? I was lying on my bed until I fell back asleep. I was in the White House, again. I was texting the people and the president. I talked to my family on face book. I told them on my profile that a war might happen. I woke up again.

and texted my friend a voice message saying "oh my gosh! I had the weirdest dream last night. We were working for the president." She sent back a message saying "holy cow! I did too! That's awesome!" I was glad though. I didn't want to work for the president, but I do want a job with all that type of techno stuff. I then checked my clock. It said 10:10 AM. That's my story. I was very relieved and happy it was all a dream.