

By: Johnna

Jones #14

The H.F.V.R.S. Invention

Have you ever wondered if you could invent a device so amazing that the president would use it? What if you were the top inventor in the entire nation? What if you had to invent something so the president could tell the people and the government everything they needed to know fast? Guess what? It happened to me. I invented the famous invention Hands Free Voice Recording System.

I was working in my inventing room when the president said, "I need you to invent a device that will let me get information to the government and the people fast."

After the announcement I got to work. I decided to make a hands free voice recording system, or H.F.V.R.S. for short. Instead of finger texting, I say the words aloud and it will go straight to the president's pager. The president would send his text to the government by only saying, "Send to government." Then after the government reads it, he will say, "Send to the people" and it will go to the news on T.V, internet, newspaper systems, and radios. Then the world will know. It's the fastest equipment ever invented, sending within 5 seconds! And if the president is where phones and internet don't work, I can send a text to the body guards, and they will tell the president. My H.F.V.R.S. sends to the bodyguards' mini micro receiver, in their pants. Then the rest of my crew can tell the government and people.

I have managed everything, built everything and I got the sending process worked out. I've gotten into the world records for the best invention ever made. The H.F.V.R.S. will always be used because it's the most important invention ever.